Blake is a tenant rep specialist facilitating the office space needs for technology and creative service tenants ranging from startups to well established firms.

Blake is historically a tenant rep specialist facilitating the office space needs for AI, tech, creative service, and VC firms. His clients range from startups to publicly traded firms. His initial role at Kidder Mathews San Francisco was as the director of market research, gaining advanced market knowledge ahead of his brokerage career. Though his focus remains on tenant rep, he's parlayed his experience with tenants into advising landlords in leasing and sales, providing proper perspectives from both sides of a transaction. He brings an analytical, cerebral, and thorough approach to all his assignments, comprehensively identifying solutions that align with unique client objectives. His wealth of experience makes him well-equipped to advise on any real estate challenge.
